

STARTING BAD PROPAGANDA

Some dangerous propagandists, dangerous to the lives of our industries, are at work here. Some of these men may be sent here by other interests, but most likely they are innocent parties and are not knowingly engaged in bad business. They have spread stories charging that the life of the Atlantic Corporation was only for a few months more. And so persistent have been these stories that many have left. General Manager H. C. Raynes issued a statement today nailing these falsehoods. He says there is lots of work in sight to employ the entire force. The company has positive orders.

FORM MASTER BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

To Encourage Building and a Better Understanding.

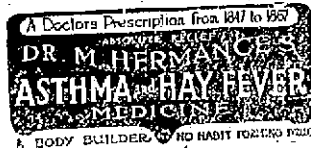

An association of Master Builders was organized in this city on Saturday evening and the purpose of the organization is to take in all builders and contractors of every character. The plan is to try to stabilize the price of material for six months, also to treat the wage scale as a unit and be in a position to encourage building.

Said one of the officers this morning: "There is $250,000 worth of building being held up in Portsmouth because of the uncertainty of labor and material costs." The wage scale comes up on May first for action and the association will endeavor to keep it so that they can encourage building and also to get a six months agreement with dealers to fix a price on material which can be obtained for a period of 6 months.

The following officers were elected: S. S. Trueman, President. Harry A. Wood, Secretary. Committee on By-Laws, Fred L. Sears, W. C. Philbrick, J. M. Conrad. The members will join the State and National association.

FRENCH SOLDIERS READY TO MARCH ON GERMAN SOIL

(By Associated Press)

Paris, April 5.—French military measures to force the German government to withdraw its troops from the Ruhr basin are now entirely in the hands of Marshal Foch it was said at the foreign office this morning. The most recent information reaching the foreign office confirms its belief that despite the assurance officially given by the Germans that only very limited troops had been sent to the Ruhr district, in reality the number amounts to an army of 40,000 men. All information from the country bordering on the Ruhr basin, it was said at the foreign office today, tends to prove there was no necessity of sending an army there as the workers and communists were exhausted and without money, food or ammunition.

British Will Not Take Part

Paris, April 5.—French troops stationed along the Rhine are prepared to enter German territory this morning according to the Matin. This would be a result of the supposed decision of the French government to occupy cities on the right bank of the Rhine as a reprisal for the movement of German government troops into the neutral zone fixed by the Versailles treaty. The British government will decline to cooperate in the advance according to the London correspondence of the Petit Parisien, but will be said, "favorably follow the action of France realizing the importance of the situation."

German Gov. Belittle France;
Fear on Account of Troops
in Neutral Zone; Millerand
Consults With Foch.

(By Associated Press)

Duisburg, Rhinish Prussia, April 4.—After heavy fighting, the government troops which reached here yesterday were today combing the city and district south of here at Mulheim for the radical element of the Red army. Fierce battles took place in the business section and machine gun and rifle bullets rained through the streets. While solid shot and hand grenades were used, four citizens were killed and many wounded.

Paris, April 4.—Wilhelm von Meyer, the German Charge d'Affaires, and Dr. Haepfert, leader of the German peace commission, sent an identical note to Premier Millerand today. The note sought to belittle the importance of the movement of government troops in the Ruhr district and said that the number had been greatly overdrawn. They said that the presence of the troops is but temporary.

Premier Millerand today held a conference with Marshal Foch.

Of the story it may be said it is of the Quince Adams Sawyer, Sky Farm and Wray Down East variety. A charming story of country life, and will be produced by a well trained cast. Special scenery and electrical effects, made and installed by competent artists and electricians, appropriate costumes and properties with incidental music will tend to complete a dramatic success. ## MICHIGAN PRIMARIES IN SNOW STORM

(By Associated Press)

ALLEGED SLAYER IS CAPTURED

Fredrickton, N. B., April 4.—Newman Clark, who it is alleged, murdered Phoebe Bell, a popular 18-year-old girl of Grand Falls, N. B., on March 25, and then put two bullets into his own breast, was recaptured on Sunday afternoon at Limestone, N.E., almost 20 miles in a southwesterly direction from Grand Falls, whence he escaped in a mysterious manner some time on Thursday night. When found by the New Brunswick officers, Clark was suffering from badly frostbitten feet, as all the protection he had for his feet from the time he escaped from the hospital at Grand Falls until he was found in the stable at Limestone, more than 24 hours afterward, was what came from pieces he had torn from his nightgown and wrapped about them.

When Sheriff Foster appeared unexpectedly before him, Clark again tried to cheat the gallows by attempting to swallow a bottle of iodine which was being used for treating the frostbites, but the officer knocked the bottle out of his hands before he had been able to swallow a large quantity and shortly before dusk they had him properly fitted out with clothes and started to drive back to Grand Falls.

NO EASTER DEMONSTRATION IN IRELAND

Expected Clash Did Not Materialize.

(By Associated Press)
Dublin, Ireland April 4.—Easter demonstrations in Ireland did not develop into the spectacular use of force against the government but there was a series of outrages throughout the country. The nationalists attacked 16 tax offices in many cities and towns, destroying the tax records, mainly by fire. The attack upon policemen's barracks and huts numbered 35, but the police were not there, having been concentrated in the larger cities.

Mr. Alvin H. Frost of Detroit was here over Sunday on business in connection with his property at Kittery.

Time to Break the Habit.

Thoughtful men, regardless of their attitude on the question of suffrage, should find a certain satisfaction in the action of the few states that are hesitating in the matter of ratifying the suffrage amendment. Mississippi has refused to ratify and the governor of Vermont and Connecticut have thus far declined to call special sessions of the Legislature for the purpose of ratification, though strongly urged to do so. And there are several other states that have not ratified the amendment, though but very few more are needed to make it the law of the land.

Friends of suffrage deplore this action, or lack of action, while its opponents are of course encouraged and hoping that the amendment will fail of ratification, but it is not probable that it will. The chances are that the few remaining states needed will fall into line and that the women of the country will soon be admitted to the full rights of citizenship.

But that is not the point which this paper would emphasize at this time. This is that it is a relief, or should be a relief, to know that there are a few states which seem disposed to settle this question in accordance with their own views and not to rush into ratification for the sake of "going with the crowd." During the prohibition campaign the country witnessed a great deal of action which appeared to be of that brand. After a certain number of states had ratified the amendment and it began to look as if its adoption was reasonably certain the states that had not voted apparently entered into what in some respects resembled a foot race, each striving to see which should reach the goal first.

There is too much of this sort of legislation, not only by states, but by municipalities, whose representatives in many cases appear to be influenced more by what some one else is doing than by their own judgment. One state will link its school system or its highway system, and long before there is time to determine whether the changes are for the better or not half of the states in the country will adopt the plan or something similar. And the same is true of cities. When wage increases or other important matters are before city councils there is invariably lugged into the debates what is being done by other cities, as if it were necessary for every city to do what other cities are doing.

It is a bad practice. Every city and every state should base its legislation on its individual needs and ability to meet the costs without overburdening the tax payers. To do as others are doing simply because others are doing it is too much like following the fashions in clothes, a practice which keeps the noses of thousands of people on the grindstone from one year's end to another.

It is better for individuals, for municipalities and for commonwealths to stand on their own feet, to judge of their own needs and ability to meet them than to persist in the foolish habit of "following the crowd," no matter where it leads.

It is on this basis that the thoughtful man should find satisfaction in the action of those states which will not be swept from their moorings by the course of others. The country needs more independent legislation. The people have been "following the fashion" too long. It is time to break the habit.

Fishing is a sport that calls for the exercise of patience, and the anglers now have an opportunity to practice that virtue until the swollen brooks subside to normal proportions. But we all know it is a hard thing for them to do.

Automobile bodies are to be manufactured in the plant formerly occupied by the Eldredge Brewing Company and the indications are that a large and flourishing industry will be built up. But it will never serve as many people as the brewing company did.

Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, has with some concern presented to the House of Commons statistics showing more extensive preparations for navy building in this country than in Great Britain. In the eyes of our British cousins this is a very serious matter.

Great catches of fish are not to be permitted to help bring down the cost of living. There have been such catches of late, followed by big reductions in prices at Boston, and the first step taken is to tie up a lot of trawlers and hold them in idleness until the market returns to "normal." And all this in face of the cry, "Produce! produce!"

Though a little late in the day, let everybody tremble. It has just come to light that New York city barely escaped bombing by a German Zeppelin about ten days before the signing of the armistice. How "terrible."

"Rattlesnake oil" composed chiefly of kerosene has lately been on sale in Boston. But at that it was as genuine as some of the stocks that have lately been worked off in that city. Happily, both transactions have led to arrests.

If all the predictions based on the great display of northern lights the other evening are fulfilled the world will be in a worse mess than it is now.

We have had some fine samples of spring weather of late, and most people are in a mood to place an order.

APPOINTED
LOCAL WAR
HISTORIAN

Local War Historian for the state of New Hampshire, Mrs. John H. Bartlett, has resigned and the office has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Lyman P. Macdonald of this city.

Mrs. Bartlett has done excellent work with the history which is a very important factor in the state war work. Mr. Macdonald is a veteran of the World's War; also Historian of the Frank E. Boona Post, American Legion and we feel that the State Historian (Prof. Husband of Hanover, N. H.) has made a very wise choice. The work is nowhere near completed and Mr. Macdonald has a lot of work ahead of him before the state record of each person who was in the service from this city is complete. Owing to the importance of these records it would be a great help to the Historian if ex-service men and women would co-operate with him by seeing to it that his or her record is complete, this can be done by getting in touch with the Historian.

10 MANCHESTER
POLICE ON DUTY
AT EXETER

Exeter, April 5.—Exeter's shoe manufacturers are now contending with their first real labor problem, caused by the unleashing of the shoe workers which has resulted in the closing of the Gale Bros. plant and the

C. S. Bates factories, although the latter opened on Tuesday and is now running. Only a few of the workmen, however, went in when the doors opened, but the number has been increased somewhat.

The Shoe Workers' union, which organized here during the winter is pickingeting the Bates' factory, but all is peaceful and quiet. All last week a force of 10 police officers from Manchester has been doing duty there, under the direction of Sergeant O'Rourke, who reports that no disorders have arisen.

LOSS $100,000 AS WATER BREAKS DAM

Anthony, R. L., Flooded, But No One Is Injured.

Providence, April 5.—The bursting of the dam of Middle Dam Pond at Anthony Sunday afternoon caused damage estimated at more than $100,000 as the water spread over a mile of territory in the vicinity. The greater part of the loss falls upon the Anthony Company's mill.

The recent high waters filled the ponds so full that the pressure tore away 45 feet of the dam. No one was injured, although water swept through some of the houses nearby and through the main street of Anthony to a depth of four feet. Last night the pond had been nearly drained and most of the water had found its way into the Pawtuxet river.

Easter Display OF GLOVES AND Maderia Handkerchiefs THE D. F. BORTHWICK STORE

EVERYBODY WENT TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Lowering clouds, and finally snow and rain did not put a damper on the Easter celebration, and although the sunshine promised by the weatherman failed to put in an appearance, the people did not forget it was Easter, and the church attendance was very large.

This is the one day of the year that almost everybody thinks it is his or her duty to attend church and this applies to all churches, so that at the morning services especially, there were very large congregations. At all of the churches there were special musical programs and sermons in commemoration of the joyful tidings of the day.

The day broke cloudy and overcast and rather chilly, but there was no rain until after noon, so that the Easter bazaar had a fair show. The snow began falling at noon and it continued off and on during the afternoon without much interruption. During the evening there was a very heavy fall of rain.

POPULAR ENG. OFFICER TO LEAVE HERE

M. L. Bulhard who has been Superintendent of the fitting out dock at the Atlantic Corporation, has resigned to accept a position with a big corporation at Rutherford, N. J. Mr. Bulhard was previously to his appointment at the Atlantic, engineer officer at the Shattuck Shipyard. He resides with his family at New Castle and since coming to Portsmouth has made hosts of friends who will regret exceedingly to have him leave. He was elected one of the selectmen at New Castle at the annual town meeting.

Mr. Bulhard becomes plant engineer in his new position with supervision over a number of plants located in the middle west.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES

Each service at the church on Sunday was crowded with devout congregations, especially the masses at 8 and 9 a. m. when the seating capacity was severely taxed. The masses rendered by both senior and junior choirs added much impressiveness to the services. A solemn high mass was celebrated at 10:30, during which Rev. Father David of the Mission Church, Boston, delivered a very able sermon from the Gospel of the day.

Never before has the altar presented a more beautiful and impressive scene than it did with the wealth of appropriate decorations, most artistically arranged by the Sisters of Mercy.

The Forty Hours Devotion will open at the high mass on Sunday next with a solemn procession through the church and will close on Tuesday at an hour to be announced later. Several out-of-town clergy will assist the pastor during this special religious period.

The Easter musical programs of the senior and junior choirs will be repeated on Sunday next.

A mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of Bennett O'Leary will be offered on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

GRAFFORT CLUB WILL OBSERVE GUEST NIGHT

The Graffort club observed "Guest Night" on Wednesday evening and has planned to have the occasion a notable one. On this occasion Grace Gies will give a dramatic reading of Elwell Sheldon's "Romance," which will be heard with pleasure. She read in the Capley-Plaza in Boston one day last week before an enthusiastic audience.

BADLY BURNED BY GASOLINE EXPLOSION

Mr. C. P. Claffin, an engineer at the Hockingham Light & Power Company, was badly injured and the stock room set on fire by an explosion of gasoline Sunday forenoon.

Mr. Claffin was in the dressing room on the third floor of the stock room washing out some clothes in gasoline and while rubbing the cloth, the gasoline suddenly exploded. He was caught in the face of the flames and badly burned about the hands, the gasoline setting fire to the floor. An alarm was sent in from Box 24 and the department took care of the fire with a single hydrant stream. The damage to the building is small, not over $200.

Mr. Claffin was taken to the power house where first aid was given until the arrival of Dr. Taylor who took him to his home on State street. Both hands and arms as far as the elbows are badly burned, but the flames did not strike his face or clothing.

MANY GIFTS FROM CHILDREN

B. Frank Gardner who recently resigned as janitor of the Farragut school was surprised when, previous to the conclusion of his duties, he was called to the kindergarten rooms and forced to accept a variety of gifts from the several pupils. On this occasion he also was the recipient of many good wishes from the teaching corps of that school.

CURTAINS!

Do you remember the old-fashioned "parlor" where "parlor curtains" hung in uncompromising dignity and even the furniture had company manners, and special stiffness? Nowadays we are much more democratic, and the living room, comfortable and always inviting, is a typical American institution.

Yet there are places for a certain restraint and formality of decoration—the music room, large reception hall or the dainty period bedroom.

The first requisite of the bedroom curtain is daintiness. After that your choice has free play. The absolutely-made-for-the-purpose bedroom curtain does not exist, for bedrooms, like tastes, differ widely. The restful soberness of the tired business man's bedroom and the frilly native boudoir of the debutante must each have its particularly appropriate window garnishing of sheer material. And the color of wall paper, the finish of the floor and the style of furniture will regulate the choice of the hangings.

Margeson Brothers have curtains suitable for every conceivable room. Voile, scrim and marquisette. Exclusive designs in wall paper.
